ONE YEAR AGO

From the files of The Courier-Gazette we learn that:—

Charles Harvey of Wollaston, Mass., was fatally injured when his car was struck by a Thomaston truck near Waldoboro.

A raid resulted in the seizure of numerous nickel machines.

W. A. Kennedy was occupying his new store at The Brook.

Douglas McAloney was taken to Knox Hospital in serious condition after being struck on the head by the mud-guard of a Rockland car.

MARVELOUS MODERN MARKET

Perry Concern On Park Street Opens Thursday —Has No Superior Anywhere

There is no larger market east of Portland; there is no finer market in the world.

Both of these terms apply indisputably to Morris B. Perry's new establishment on Park street which has its formal opening Thursday afternoon. Every inch of the large building has been put to practical use, and the equipment is a marvel of modern science.

"When we remodeled our Main street store in 1927 we incorporated into it the last word in the way of fixtures, but a comparison with the equipment of the new store will convince everybody that marvelous strides have been made since that time," Mr. Perry told a Courier-Gazette reporter yesterday.

The new market is located at the corner of Park and High streets with entrances from both. It is a brick structure, built in 1919 as an auto sales room and was continued as such until the proprietors quit that establishment. From that time until its purchase by Mr. Perry it was occupied in part by Mrs. Lena K.

Sargent's business college, and in part as a repair shop.

Under new ownership the building has been completely remodeled, and the Moffitt tenement, next north on High street, was torn down to provide a parking space for about 90 cars.

The main store, 50x75 feet, is arranged in a manner which is going to be most convenient for customers and clerks. The floor is laid in cork tiling, 2180 pieces being required for this task. The walls are done in sheet rock, the former in straw color and the latter in white. The predominating color, however, is jade green, as seen in the tiling, and in the steel shelves, all of which are

Morris B. Perry, proprietor of the new store—a "Captain of Industry"

REVOLUTIONARY PENSIONERS OF KNOX COUNTY, MAINE

EDWARD KALLOCH GOULD

State Historian of Maine

"British and Tory Marauders on the Penobscot,"

"Storming the Heights, Maine's Embattled Farmers at Castine in the Revolution,"

"Revolutionary Soldiers and Sailors of Knox County, Maine, and their Descendants," (Ms.)

FOREWORD

It was originally intended to publish these sketches as a book under the title of "Revolutionary Soldiers and Sailors of Knox County, Maine, and Their Descendants." Now that the manuscript is completed, and warned by my experience with the publication of my other Revolutionary works, I have not had the courage to assume the financial loss that I am quite certain would follow its publication.

But there seems to be a good reason to avail myself of the kindness and breadth of vision of the editorial management of The Courier-Gazette, which is ever ready to open the columns of that paper for articles of historical value, to publish at least the sketches of the pensioners. These are not numerous and in many cases are richest in historical lore.

It was through the generous financial aid of Rockland Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, that I was able to obtain photostatic copies of important papers on file with the Pension cases of these Revolutionary veterans in the Pension Bureau at Washington. My compatriots in that Society should get whatever satisfaction which their generous promotion of this undertaking entitles them, in the perusing, and if thought worthy, the preserving of the results of the research which they made possible.

I still cherish the delight experienced in revelling in this hitherto undiscovered source of original historical data that it was my privilege to examine in the Pension Bureau at Washington. The month devoted to this research work in our National Capital was time well spent. The results will prove this statement to be true.

With but few exceptions, the papers on file at the Pension Bureau, give information in regard to the services of these Revolutionary soldiers and sailors, and consist of the declaration of the applicant with affidavits to prove their claim. In some cases, I have found the original commissions of officers on file with the other papers; Bible records of births, marriages and deaths, torn living, are also there. It has been my pleasant task to reclaim and utilize these long lost records. Here also are original discharges of some of these men signed by Major General Henry Knox at West Point, when he mustered out of the service the Army of the Revolution.

These papers contain a rich store not only of personal, but of war history; detached statements and broken fragments, to be sure, but none the less interesting and real. They tell us in the very words of the actors in that war of Concord, Lexington, and Bunker Hill; of the siege of Boston, of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, of Monmouth, White Plains, of Trenton and Valley Forge; of the battles of Saratoga and Yorktown and the surrenders of Burgoyne and Cornwallis; of the gallant, but ill-starred attacks on Quebec, and the sufferings of the retreat from the frozen north. In justice to my associates in the Sons of the American Revolution, I feel that they should get the benefit of their generous financial outlay by having at least the sketches of the Revolutionary Pensioners published, and they are offered herewith.

Courtney Babbidge, Jr.

COURTNEY BABBIDGE, JR., of Vinalhaven, Maine, was born in 1762. He first settled upon the northern part of the lot assigned him in Deer Isle, Maine. His wife was a daughter of Hezekiah Lane. After her death he married Catharine, the widow of Ephraim Stinson of Vinalhaven, who had been married twice before. Having sold his Deer Isle farm to his brother Stephen he removed to an island at the Eastern entrance of Fox Island Thoroughfare, in the town of Vinalhaven, where he lived until his death and which is still known as "Babbidge Island."

May 6, 1818, Courtney Babbidge applied for a pension for his service in the Revolutionary War, giving his age as 56 years. He enlisted at Harpswell, Mass., Jan. 30, 1781, in Captain Simeon Lord's Co. 2nd Massachusetts Regiment, Col. Ebenezer Sprout, and continued to serve therein until Oct. 30, 1783, when he was discharged at West Point by Major General Henry Knox. It reads as follows:

manding the garrison of West Point and its dependencies.

Courtney Babbidge, soldier in the Second Massachusetts Regiment being enlisted for three years is hereby honorably discharged from the service of the United States, at West Point, the 28th day of October, 1783.

H. Knox, M. General
By the General's command,
Jno. Lillie, Aide de Camp
Registered in the Book of the Regiment
A. Tupper, Adjutant.

Courtney was in the battles of King's bridge and in the siege of Yorktown and at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis. In the statement of his property to the Pension Bureau, he owns a yoke of oxen, two cows, ten sheep, one yearling, swine, plough and chain, shovel, hoe, scythe, rocker, axe, saw, pot, kettle, teakettle, spider, keg, milk pans, churn, and other dairy furniture, tongs, chest, table, coffee pot, tin pail, set of cups, bowls, teapot and other crockery ware, knives and forks, spoons, eight chairs, bench and stove, Bible and a lot of pamphlets, a bushel of corn, 20 lbs. of pork, one cheese, basket.

CAMDEN'S BIG WATERFRONT FIRE

BEATEN IN A TAXI Ralph Thompson of Spruce Head Has Costly and Un- comfortable Experience

A Spruce Head man had an unfortunate experience in Massachusetts Sunday. A Boston paper yesterday told the story thus:

"Yielding to the companionship of a stranger on a bus trip to New York cost Ralph Thompson, 40, of Spruce Head, Me., $110 and his identification papers after he had been beaten unconscious during a taxi ride from Boston to Everett, last night.

"After he had been taken to the Whidden Memorial Hospital by a passing motorist, who found him on Garvey street, Everett, where he had been left by his assailant and a comrade, he told police that he had met the man giving the name of Mr. Dwight on Dwight street, Boston, in Park square while he was transferring from one bus to another.

He had left his home in Maine yesterday morning and had purchased a ticket to New York when he met the stranger, who said he also was bound for that city and suggested they go together after getting his suitcase at the Dwight street address. Calling a taxi, he told police, they drove for a few minutes and then picked up the second man. After they had driven to Everett, refusing to let him out of the taxi, they beat him unconscious with a blackjack.

tub, barrel and sundry small articles, claim against Abner Babbidge Estate, doubtful, worth probably from $15 to $20. Annual income by labor $20. Annual income from wife's island $3. All this property was valued at $94.25.

July 18, 1820, his family consisted of his wife, Catharine, who was then 44 years old and partially dropsical and paralyzed. Olive Smith, his wife's daughter, age 17 years, Lydia Babbidge, age 14 years, Bester Babbidge 10 years; and his second wife, children, Melinda Stimpson, age 10 years; Rebecca Stimpson, age 7 years; Walter Babbidge, age 4 years and Benjamin Babbidge, age 2 years.

Courtney states to the Pension Bureau that he owes Thomas Brooks of Salem, Mass., $100, and sundry small debts amounting to $60. His wife claimed a third interest in a small island of about 66 acres near Vinalhaven.

Courtney died Oct. 9, 1834. His widow, Catharine applied for a pension March 2, 1853, declaring she was then a resident of Rockland, Maine, and was 76 years old, and had married Courtney Babbidge at Vinalhaven, Me., Nov. 24, 1814. David Wooster, a justice of the peace, performing the ceremony. The graves in the cemetery where he lies buried, have only unlettered field stones to mark them and it is impossible to identify his grave.

Courtney Babbidge Jr. was appointed administrator of the estate of his father Courtney Babbidge of Deer Isle by the Lincoln County Probate Court. The inventory by Joseph Whitmore, Belcher Tyler and George Frees, appraisers, was filed in that Court June 7, 1784, showing an estate of 94 pounds and six shillings. Mark Haskell and Theophilus Eaton were appointed commissioners to examine claims against the estate. The administrator filed his account Nov. 28, 1785, and distribution of the estate was ordered Nov. 29, 1785.

In addition to the service in the 2d Massachusetts Regiment, Courtney Jr., and his brother Stephen Babbidge of Deer Isle, and later of Camden, Maine, were privates in Captain Nathaniel Fales Co., which marched to Majorbagaduce (Castine) by order of General Lovell Aug. 3, 1779, taking part in the operations at this place until discharged Aug. 15, 1779.

Gives Town Worst Scare Since Conflagration Of 1892—Plants Once Occupied By Camden Lumber Co. and Camden Anchor-Rockland Machine Co. Destroyed, With No Insurance —Splendid Work By Firemen

Fire losses aggregating more than $60,000 were sustained at Camden Sunday afternoon when a conflagration swept a wide section of the harbor front, destroying the plants formerly occupied by the Camden Lumber Company and Camden Anchor-Rockland Machine Company, and causing damage to a number of other buildings some of which were located at a considerable distance from where the fire started.

A heavy northwest wind was blowing, and when the Camden Fire Department arrived on the scene Chief Engineer Allen F. Payson immediately saw the peril in which his town was placed, and he lost no time in soliciting the aid of the Rockport and Rockland fire departments. With their arrival 13 streams were being played on the fire—even by the Camden apparatus, three by Rockport and three by Rockland. It was this concerted and well directed effort that may have been the means of saving the beautiful Megunticook town from another such disaster as that which visited the town Nov. 9, 1892, wiping out the majority of the business section.

The destroyed buildings were occupied at the time of the fire only for storage purposes—monuments to industries which at one time loomed large in the industrial prosperity of Camden. The buildings formerly occupied by the lumber company were owned by the Whitmore estate, and were roughly valued at $20,000. The buildings formerly occupied by the machine company were owned by Isidor Gordon of Rockland, who placed their value between $35,000 and $40,000. Neither the Whitmore estate nor Mr. Gordon carried a cent of insurance, and yesterday there seemed little likelihood that any of the properties would be rebuilt.

The fire was discovered by Royal L. Arrey and friend and the alarm was sounded by Leroy "Peanut" Alley thus making it possible for the Camden department to lay its lines while the fire was confined to one building—a two-story frame structure owned by the Whitmore estate, and occupied by the boat shop of Capt. E. E. (Ned) Davies of 19 Union street. The interior of this building was a mass of flames when seen by young Alley, and no grass grew beneath his feet as he hurried away to sound the alarm from box 34.

Adjoining the Whitmore building were other wooden structures having the same ownership, a coal shed, the old office building and the shed in which bricks were stored. These were quickly doomed, and sweeping westerly against the heavy gale, the fire next tackled the brick building formerly occupied by the Camden Anchor-Rockland Machine Company feeding avidly on the oily machinery and other paraphernalia stored there by the Camden Sardinia Company—also no longer in operation. This was a 2½ story structure 160 feet long by 60 feet wide. Adjoining this building was another brick structure, two stories high, known as the office building but used at the time only for storage purposes by the Camden Sardinia Company.

In hardly more time than it takes to write it both buildings were reduced to bare walls.

Also destroyed were three other buildings connected with the machine company's plant—the old foundry building in which were stored a few boats; the "care room" and the shed formerly used for the storage of coke, sand, etc.

The destruction of all these buildings made a most spectacular fire, watched by many hundreds of spectators. Automobiles brought sightseers from a wide radius, and continued to arrive long after the fire was well under control.

Adding to the excitement was the manner in which the burning embers rode off the force of the gale, endangering many other properties.

Among those to which the fire communicated were the plants of the two fuel companies—P. G. Willey & Co. at 24 Bay View street and the George H. Thomas Fuel Co., on Bay View street; and the J. H. Hobbs Lumber Co.'s building. The Willey company's loss was estimated at $1000, and the Thomas company's loss at $1500. The damage to the Hobbs building was comparatively small.

Boats moored near the scene of the conflagration were moved to places of safety.

No accidents of consequence occurred during the fire, but there were the usual narrow escapes. The fire zone was well policed.

Sparks landed on the roof of the Camden Yacht Club building but the incipient fire was quickly squelched.

The hazard caused by the heavy gale was in part offset by another of Nature's freaky moods, the occasional rain which fell from the dark clouds sweeping overhead. This served to wet roofs on which the flying embers were steadily falling.

With no tenant in the building where the fire started suspicion naturally turns to the probability that it was the work of a firebug. If so he selected a day when a large section of Camden was imperiled. A rigid investigation will doubtless be conducted.

reached the 600-mark with many requests throughout New England. It is expected that Gov. Brann will make the first purchase in the new market and that the money received from this sale will be framed as a memento.

The banquet will be followed by a ball at Temple hall. Purchasers of tickets are requested to bear in mind that there is no additional charge for the dance, one ticket admits a person to both the banquet and dance.

Attractive spring plant sale is to take place this Thursday at the Hospital Garden on Limerock street at 1.30 p. m. and on through the afternoon. Send plants, well marked, Garden Club members and friends, or telephone Mrs. George W. Smith (487-J) before 10 a. m. Thursday if plants are to be called for. This is your chance to get many varieties of fine seasonal plants at minimum prices—all donated for the cause. If stormy Thursday, come Friday at the same hour.

OLD SONG
How sweet I roamed from field to field,
And tasted all the summer's pride;
Till I the Prince of Love beheld,
Who in the sunny beams did glide.

He showed me lilies for my hair,
And blushing roses for my brow;
And led me through his garden fair,
Where all his golden pleasures grow.

With sweet May-dews my wings were wet,
And Phoebus fired my vocal rage;
He caught me in his silken net,
And shut me in his golden cage.

He loves to sit and hear me sing,
Then laughing sports and plays with me—
Then stretches out my golden wing,
And mocks my loss of liberty.

—William Blake.

A special assembly will be held at the high school tomorrow morning at 8.30, featuring the three musical organizations which will participate in the Eastern Maine School Music Festival at Bar Harbor on Saturday—the Girls' Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Esther Rogers; the Orchestra, directed by Harold Libby; and the School Band, directed by H. E. Kirkpatrick. The numbers will be those to be presented at Bar Harbor. The public is invited.

Keenest school interest this week centers in the Eastern Maine School Music Festival at Bar Harbor Saturday, in which the High School Girls' Glee Club, the High School Orchestra and the School Band will participate. Last year the Glee Club and Band won distinctive ratings, and judging from the splendid work the orchestra has been doing under Harold Libby's leadership, it is expected all three organizations will "bring back the bacon" from this trip. Glee clubs, bands and orchestras from the schools in this section of Maine, such as Bangor, Belfast, Lincoln, Ellsworth, etc., will take part, and while no prizes are offered, each unit is given their respective ratings. These ratings are made by competent judges, and are intended to serve as guidance for directors for future work. It is a most interesting experience to see and hear these youthful musicians. In addition to the contests of the three classes—glee clubs, bands and orchestra, there will be a parade, massed band and orchestral numbers, an evening program with a massed chorus. Anyone who is interested in the musical activities of our young people will find the trip to Bar Harbor Saturday most worth while.

Did you hear that glorious song of the glorious Baltimore Oriole making vibrant the air yesterday, which by the card was the 20th day of May, upon which this visitor from the south heralds the actual arrival of spring? Welcome to him, and hoo-ray!

The Food Field Reporter, published May 6, has as its "guest editorial" an article entitled "How the Premium Industry Operates," written by E. W. Porter, formerly of this city, who is president of the Premium Service Co., Inc., of New York City. The article carries a full page advertisement of Mr. Porter's concern and makes it doubly attractive by publishing a lifelike portrait of President Porter.

The W.C.T.U. will hold an open meeting Friday night at the First Baptist Church. Program on temperance and missions. Mrs. Jeannette Danton director. Basket lunch at 6.30 for members, friends and invited guests, with this program at 7.30: "Our Foreign Field," a demonstration, Mrs. Mary Perry Rich, leader; trumpet solo, Dudley Harvie; "Light Line Music," Mrs. E. M. Lawrence; special music; "The Home Field," Capt. Brown of the Salvation Army; remarks by special guests.

That the courtesies received through the clerk of court's office do not go astray may be judged from a letter Clerk Griffin received yesterday from Benjamin L. Berman of Lewiston, who appeared as one of the attorneys in the Clark negligence case. Mr. Berman wrote: "I want to thank you and Miss Borgerson for the many courtesies extended to me while I was in Rockland. I enjoyed my stay immensely and was greatly impressed with the efficient and painstaking manner in which the duties of your office were discharged."

Members invited their wives to attend last night's meeting of the Knox County Ministerial Association in the Baptist Church, Thomaston, and 35 were present to enjoy the supper and Mrs. Gladys Morgan's notable address on "Religion and Music." Mrs. Morgan outlined the history of the association of music and religion down through the centuries, and told of the inestimable value of music to the worship program of the church. Such a profound impression was created by the paper that the Association subsequently adopted a resolution declaring it to be the most helpful and instructive paper of the year, delivered before that organization.

Bok, and a grandson of the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis, of Merion, Pa., carries special interest to Maine friends. The wedding is to take place on Tuesday, June 18, at the home of the bride, and will be attended by the members of the two families and immediate friends. The young couple plan a unique wedding journey—to make a hunting and exploring trip to the Arctic regions. They have chartered a 95-foot Norwegian ice breaker, on which they will first go to Svalbard and then to the ice pack hoping to get within at least 600 miles of the Pole. They will then work their way to Northeast Greenland, leaving their boat at Iceland. During the trip they plan to hunt for crystals, and fossils, and do some big game shooting. Miss Boericke was presented to Philadelphia society in 1928. She studied abroad at the Florentine Sheldon Nixon School in Italy. While she has not visited Camden, Knox County is familiar ground to her, as he at one time attended Beaver Camp for Girls, at Alford Lake. Mr. Bok is a graduate of Williams College and attended Oxford. He is an official in the Curtis Publishing Company.

From Gulf's Multi-sol process now comes a PREMIUM MOTOR OIL FOR 25¢

Newly-discovered refining principle puts premium qualities into famous 25¢ oil

TODAY you can go into any Gulf station and buy more motor oil value for a quarter than ever before!

What has happened? Just this . . .

Gulf has built a giant refinery unit to utilize a new refining process. It is called the Multi-sol Process—and gives Gulf-lube the qualities of a premium oil!

This process employs solvents of opposite actions which act as chemical "policemen" in the oil. They separate the desirable from the undesirable parts of the oil . . . get rid of all the "mischief-making" elements.

Today, no other 25¢ motor oil in America is refined by this process!

And here's what this means to you . . .

With the new Gulf-lube you'll get better motor protection even during the longest, hottest summer runs. You'll get less wear, less carbon, less sludge. You'll save the cost of many a repair and carbon-cleaning bill.

Use Gulf-lube, and you will add less oil between drains. For the Multi-sol Process has stepped up Gulf-lube's already high mileage 20% to 25%!

Try the new Gulf-lube today—only 25¢ a quart at all Gulf dealers. Your car will know it's a premium oil—but your pocketbook won't!

GULF REFINING CO.

No other 25¢ motor oil gives you all these quality points!

1. It is Multi-sol processed.
2. Its already high mileage has been stepped up 20% to 25%.
3. Highly resistant to oxidation—non-sludging . . . extra long life.
4. It has a high viscosity index—thins out less under heat . . . easy starting year-round. Thoroughly de-waxed.
5. Forms far less carbon.
6. High film strength—a pure mineral oil that will not corrode new alloy bearings.
